Former Alamo mayor sues local businessman for defamation

The former mayor, Rudy Villarreal, filed the lawsuit, which seeks unspecified damages, after the businessman used the word "liar" in public discussions about the mayor's after-care home.

Villarreal, who served as mayor from 2005 to 2010, says the businessman made false statements about him in the course of a political campaign.

The businessman, who is a former city councilman, denies the claims and says he is being retaliated against for speaking out.

The lawsuit was filed in Hidalgo County District Court and seeks unspecified damages.

Former mayor still supports him
